MARQUISE VICTIM OF BROKEN NERVES

Declared to Have Been a Sufferer for Months.

EPISODE IN PHILADELPHIA

Physical Condition May Account for Woman's Recent Renunciation of the Catholic Faith.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.-The action of the Marquise des Monstiers-Merinville in renouncing her faith a few days ago after a long devotion to the Catholic Church, which has been the source of wide comment, is now ascribed by her friends to overwrought nerves, from which she has suffered for the past eighteen months.

Early in May of 1903, it was recalled here by several persons who had made the acquaintance of the marquise at the time, she came to Philadelphia in search of treatment for a nervous complaint. With her were a coachman, two maids and several nurses, sewing girls and

In company with several attendants she called on Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the famous nerve specialist, and there was some talk of her entering his sanitarium, but when the time came to com-plete the arrangements the Marquise plete the arrangements the Marquise stipulated that her own private attendants should accompany her to the institution and remain with her during her sojourn there.

This was contrary to Dr. Mitchell's rules, and he insisted that if the marquise placed herself under his care she must give up for the time her ordinary methods of living and submit to the care of skilled nurses. The marquise would not consent to this arrangement, and she did not renew her negotiations with Dr. Mitchell.

When the doctor was asked to confirm this story he listened attentively to the statement made by one of the mar-

Face to Face With Widow.

There will be many dramatic incidents in the trial when it is fairly under way.
The most striking, it is expected, will be when Mrs. Young, widow of the bookmaker, is placed on the stand.
Then Nan Patterson will be brought face to face with the woman who sought to put the occam between her husband and the girl with whom he was infatuated.

It was remarked during the proceedings that Commissioner Macfarland made it a rule to subject Robinson to unusually searching examinations, apparently attempting to break down the witness' assertions.

Robinson, the first witness called, said, in referring to Stutler's assertion condid he ever loan to said firm, or either member of it, any money or other valuable thing, nor did he ever loan to said firm, or either member of it, any money or other valuable thing.

"Afflant further says that he did have a financial business transaction in connection with Royal Robinson to unusually searching examinations, apparently attempting to break down the witness' assertions.

Interesting details of the love affair between the actress and Young will be furnished by several women subpoenaed by the presentation.

furnished by several women subpoenaed by the prosecution.

From questions put to the talesmen by Mr. Levy, it is apparent his intention is pot to place Miss Patterson on the stand as a wilness in her own behalf.

Her relations with Young, it is known, have been a source of regret to her, and although nothing would suit Mr. Levy better than to have his client tell of the happenings on the fateful day, he feels the humiliation of telling of her relations with Young would be more than Miss Patterson could bear in the presence of her father.

human system for the same cleansing purpose.
Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.
Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.
Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.
It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.
All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.
The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their-continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.
